

TUNNEL

VISION

YOUR BI-WEEKLY SOURCE ON THE RPI UNDERGROUND

New member!

By I

Today is a good day.
Not only is Tunnel Vision (finally) releasing, but we've got so much new stuff this issue!

First off, WE HAVE A NEW SECTION (and) WRITER!! Joining us on this issue is carnavalesque, someone who made some of the mini crosswords last semester. Horoscopes and advice for all, it's FROM THE DESK OF CARNAVALESQUE!

We're also breaking the hiatus from wall art with this issue's State of the Art, so be sure to check it out! Hope you enjoy Tunnel Vision 15!

Correction from TV14: We was Whistler who made the crossword, really sorry about that, we'll be more careful next time!

Tunnel Vision: Out of the Tunnel

Anyone got a 3DS?

By I

Oi! Did you know Nintendo's 3DS is almost 15? In celebration of the occasion, I decided to do some testing, carrying my 3DS around campus in the hopes of getting some good old StreetPasses. How many did I get? Read on to find out!

...READ MORE ON PAGE 4!

You can also email us at tunnelvisionweekly@proton.me!

What's new in the boxes

What's up with Low tech dump?

By I

How strange. Starting last month, the boxes that have so long stood in the back of the loading dock area of LOW have vanished. In fact, all that has been there for the past few weeks are pallets and flattened tech dump boxes. What's going on?

Also, thank you to anonymous for the whatisthatthing answer!

...READ MORE ON PAGE 2!

State of the Art

Wall art is back!

By I

Remember the past 7 issues? State of the Art was kinda running on fumes. There wasn't much to report on, and we did not want to get into the middle of what was going on in the tunnels.

With this issue we're finally breaking the streak and returning to our roots (in a way)! Check out some cool art from outside the tunnels!

...READ MORE ON PAGE 3!

Subterranean Homesick Blues

By Storm - My Ghost Go Ghost

By I

Nothing in this world feels right anymore, you start to doubt who and what around you is real. Since Dodeca Corps new release "Mirage", the world becomes deliriant for what is and isn't tangible. The cops on the road stand as quantum scarecrows, the threat of corporeality enough to keep most in line. You question which kind of soullessness are in the gaze of the walmart employees. You restlessly ponder if they have already made a mirage out of you and you just haven't noticed. You wonder if mirages can bleed.

...I read this review on page 5 therefore I am

NEW SECTION!

From the desk of carnavalesque

By carnavalesque

Ever been lost in time and space? Not knowing the answers that lie beneath? Well we can't help you there. Find guidance for everyday problems in the new section!

...READ MORE ON PAGE 6!

QUESTIONS, COMMENTS, NEWS, CONCERNS?

Go to the website below OR the QR code (it's a google form) to the left to submit that and more!

It can be anonymous!

tunnelvisionweekly.github.io

WHAT'S NEW IN THE BOX(ES): WHAT'S UP WITH LOW?

What's up with LOW? (pun intended) If you're an avid tech dump enjoyer you'll have noticed that the LOW tech dump has been... gone. For the past few weeks, closer to if not over a month at this point, there has been nothing but pallets and folded boxes in LOW's typical spot. Besides that, it's been a relatively uneventful set of 2 weeks. Though I saw on Discord someone found an iPod Nano earlier! It seems like mostly everything just kind of shuffled around a bunch. Some PCs and PC keyboards were tossed in the JEC one day, they had some kind of smartcard reader on them too, that was pretty interesting. But yeah, honestly not too much else to say on this past stretch of time.

Whatisthisting?

Thank you to anonymous who contacted us with information on last issue's thing! It was in fact a fencing scoring system, complete with scoring and score lighting. Neat! We don't have anything to ask about this time around, but if you find anything you're curious about, send us some photos!

Notice we said anything. Where are LOW's tech dump boxes? Has it become the clearance bin of tech dumps without a tech dump of its own now? If you have information on this, we're eager to hear it!

The LOW tech dump as it has been for the past ~month. What's going on? At least on the side there are some boxes, but they're from other tech dumps. Let us know if you know any more info!

The VCC tech dump earlier. Absolutely full of server PCs!

Find of the (bi)Week:

This edition's find of the (bi)Week is a large soap dispenser. Only it's not just large, it's comically large! I just never thought that such a soap dispenser even existed. It's like it was made for giants! Found in the MRC.

What's actually new in the box(es):

JEC: Lots of activity, PCs, keyboards, random boxes and wires. There was even a magazine someone threw in there! Overall an interesting time to look, just nothing super high value during this time.

MRC: Find of the week! It's been cleared recently, lots of power strips, though. It's been pretty slow here for a while.

VCC: Sun Microsystems server rack PCs aplenty! Literally overflowing with them!

DCC: iPod Nano found earlier! Plus huge PC case and tape media still perpetually there.

Sage: There's a printer, some PC fans, and a bunch of wires.

Low: Is this tech dump gone? At least some boxes from other places still in the hall.

Union: Pretty much zero anything lately, this one's usually very hit-or-miss.

View more photos on our website! Find something? Email us at tunnelvisionweekly@proton.me!

STATE OF THE ART. WE'RE SO BACK (AGAIN)

We're really excited to announce our continuation of coverage of wall art around campus! Since the notebook we've been covering last semester got removed recently, what better time to return to form than now? While the tunnels have been locked down since last semester, there are still plenty of spots to see more wall art around campus! Plus, we received word via the submission form of a tour someone anonymous put together, of various locations you could see various spots! For those of you cipher solvers, check out the Throne Room for the first stop! Hope you enjoy this return-to-form for State of the Art, thanks for stopping by!

Ah yes, a normal library study room drawer. Let's open it!

Would you rather have $1 or $2?

Asking the real questions. For those of you economists out there, what do you think?

Thank you to the anonymous person who made this! Super cool styling, and it's a fun tour! Check it out in the Throne Room if you'd like. They said they make stickers, too!

This Just In: Angry Cartoon Shakes Fist at Time; Gets No Response

Oh no! Stoned Cat's gotta watch out!!

It wouldn't be the RPI backrooms without Stoned Cat and the eye!

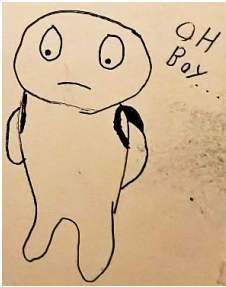

"The censors are gonna f#^!ng kill me, folks!"
-TV with a suit

Nothing to see here, just a casual portal to the underworld on the ceiling. Move along (before they get you)!

Just a casual shark with legs. Looking sharp!

Don'tcha know they're actually less dangerous than vending machines? Unless they have legs, maybe.

N00000000!!! The drawer was a trap!!

YOUR poster could be here! Email us a photo of your favorite poster on campus! No submissions last time, so the first spot is still open!

Pretty Cool Poster (PCP) Of the week (hopefully soon to be)!

You can't see this picture Scientists have recently discovered a picture you can't see no matter how hard you try. It's impossible! In a study attempting to observe it, the test subjects all became endlessly frustrated they couldn't see it.

TUNNEL VISION: OUT OF THE TUNNEL

ANYONE GOT A 3DS?

- By I (West Virginia will be back in #16!)

For this issue's Out of the Tunnel, I is taking over for West Virginia. They'll be back in TVW #16, just a busy schedule.

Heads up! The 15th Anniversary of the original Nintendo 3DS is in 2 days, 2/26! *(JP release date, USA ~1 month later on 3/27)

Have you ever used a Nintendo 3DS? For me, it's been a cherished childhood device since I got mine in 2012. Mine's been through a lot, needing a top screen replacement at some point (it was difficult; don't drop it!). It's also been homebrewed!! If you haven't homebrewed your 3DS yet, this is your reminder to do so, it's super easy and lets you do so much more with your system, especially since the eShop closed in 2023 (rip). You can even still use Miiverse and online multiplayer (for certain games) again through the use of Pretendo! (For those of you interested, head on over to 3ds.hacks.guide online! For Pretendo, it's pretendo.network)

Anyway, this got me wondering, how many people still have 3DSes, especially on campus? Over the past few weeks, I've been feeling nostalgic and been carrying my 3DS everywhere on campus in the hopes of getting a StreetPass (and playing it, of course). I'm sure you'll be shocked, flabbergasted even, to hear that I got a resounding zero StreetPasses so far. I'm stuck on the second-to-last section in Find Mii, I need more StreetPasses! Plus, it would be great to use this feature again!

If you've got a 3DS, consider carrying it with you to class or around campus (not powered off)! It'd be super cool to get some use out of this unique feature of the 3DS again.

The result of my experiment (sadly).
No green Streetpass bubble this time..

The Nintendo 3DS, in all its glory!

SUBTERRANEAN HOMESICK BLUES

-π

Arizona hip-hop darlings By Storm have delivered an exceptional breakout album that operates like a controlled demolition of grief. By Storm is the phantom that rose from what was left of Injury Reserve, the trio whose founding member Stepa Groggs died in 2020 while the group was still drawing its first real breaths. Surviving members RiTchie and producer Parker Corey poured that devastation into Injury Reserve's final transmission, By The Time I Get To Phoenix, a personal favorite of that year, and a record that sounded like it was decomposing in your hands as you listened. They buried the name with Groggs. My Ghost Go Ghost, released on deadAir Records, is not a sequel to that funeral. It's a reflection of what it means to move on once the casket has been buried.

The album opens with "Can I Have You For Myself?," where RiTchie addresses impending fatherhood over frigid, looping guitar chords and synthetic crooning that circles like a moth trapped against glass, before the whole arrangement implodes without warning. "Dead Weight" and "Zig Zag" descend further into Corey's labyrinth, a grainy electronic crackle giving way to chaotic whiplash breakbeats. "Zig Zag" is the album's cathedral moment, a melancholic acoustic line that metamorphoses over six minutes into a shimmering collage of downsampled drums and glitchy filigree.

The emotional marrow lives in "In My Town," where desolate guitar work channels Talk Talk-era post-rock. RiTchie lays his life flat on the table: DoorDashing between tour stops, writing lyrics between deliveries like prayers scribbled on napkins. Most rappers build mythologies, RiTchie builds an itemized receipt of what it actually costs to make art when nobody's buying. "Double Trio 2" tears the ceiling off, maximalist, explosive, and "And I Dance" is the light that floods through the gap: euphoric, breakbeat-laced, almost recklessly colorful. The closer "GGG" doesn't resolve. A bluesy guitar riff curls through lyrics heavy with the exhaustion of a man who has learned to live alongside his wound. The album doesn't end so much as it stops bleeding.

Parker and RiTchie haven't rebranded, they've performed an autopsy on their old selves and built something new from what they found still beating. My Ghost Go Ghost wears its stitches on the outside. Nine dark meditations with Corey's most disciplined production to date, and RiTchie rapping like a man who has finally accepted that grief doesn't leave. It just passively haunts you as you continue to live.

FROM THE DESK OF CARNIVALESQUE

Welcome, dear reader, to a new section! Where your puzzler, carnivalesque, solve your perplexing questions gathered from RPI subreddit, yik yak, fizz, and faint murmurs of the night. With Valentine's Day just past us, love is in the air at this polytechnic.

CARNIVALESQUE, I'm enamored with this guy in my HASS class but I'm too shy to go up and talk to him. We only share that one class and it's too easy to ask for help or create a study group. How can I spend more time with him without seeming obvious?

-Lovestruck on Fizz

DEAR LOVESTRUCK, there are plenty of ways to show your affection without relating it to academics! Perhaps ask him to lunch after class or challenge him to a lively debate on that class's topic. Dazzle him with your mind and he'll fall in love with your heart. ♦

CARNIVALESQUE, Taco Bell is my lord and savior and my friends just don't get it. They never want to go on a midnight Taco Bell run. They don't appreciate the magnificent Crunchwrap Supreme. Now I've gone an entire week without a churro because they won't drive me. How do I reconcile my love for Taco Bell and my friendships?

-Baja Blasting with Buds

DEAR BAJA, instead of highlighting the importance of Taco Bell, tell your friends how much you enjoy their presence and wanting to share this passion with them. Take the 87 so your friends don't think you're using them for their car. Time spent together is time well-spent; your love for Taco Bell is clouding the memories made along the way. ♦

Do you want your questions answered in the next issue? Stand outside at the witching hour and whisper your ask into the night. If you hear a calliope, I've received your query!

★ ★ ★ Horoscope for Wednesday, February 25 ★ ★ ★

Taurus, Leo, Pisces - Do not look for love. Instead, find the one in dark, underground caverns where doom and gloom fester. Life-long bonds will grow when secrets are revealed.

Aries, Virgo, Aquarius - This week is bright. Take chances and bet everything on Kalshi.

Libra, Sagittarius, Capricorn - You're holding on to a bull by its horns. What will you do? Let go or take control? The bull is bucking, your fingers are getting sweaty. Will your grip tighten or fall away like generations past? It's going faster now—running in circles until the only left and right you know are the hands in front of you. What will you do? What will you do? What will you do?

Gemini, Cancer, Scorpio - Enemies are closing in. Be wary of strangers but amenable when asked for favors. If you see ravens or #16, RUN.

PUZZLES N' STUFF

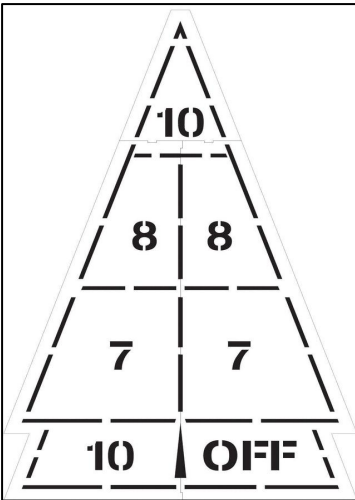

Tunnel Vision is still looking for writers!

As the saying goes, there are 2 wolves inside of you. One does nothing. The other yearns to help with Tunnel Vision. Listen to the second wolf and contact us today!

				2			12	8		14	10	11	15
	3	12				8	14		5		6
	9		14	3	4	5	11		15		1	6
	8	11		6				4		2
11	10		1	14	15	4		6	8	5				7	3
5		6		11	8	16	2				3				15
13	15	4	2		12				16	10				8
3		16			6	1	10		2		4		11	13	14
15		13						2
8		3				2	5		7		16				12
				15	7	11		1		13			6	3
			11		10	6
12				10	2	3			4	16	15				11
	2	10	6		5			14		1	8	4			7
9				8	11							13	10	6
	11		3		16	15		10				5		12

If you like sudoku, have fun with this one!

PUZZLES N' STUFF

Enjoy the classic game of newspaper shuffleboard above!

Pub Safe Warning: Do Not 4-Down on 7-Across Hill

By carnivalesque

ACROSS

- 1 Where you might've gone to de-stress over winter break
- 4 Korean graduation trip destination
- 6 South American pack animal
- 7 Bldg. home to the wooden egg
- 8 "Duh!"

DOWN

- 1 Type of bath you want a computer science major to take
- 2 Nike competitor
- 3 Former title for RPI tutoring often held at DCC 337
- 4 Winter vehicle
- 5 Red muppet on Sesame Street

Welcome back to the greatest game show available, the Tunnel Vision contest box!

If you want to be on the Puzzles n' Stuff Hall of Fame, and a message in the next edition, answer this question correctly first: What is, $2+2(5+2)$?

Number Nonogram:

The bottom and right indicate sums. Use each number, 1-15, only once! Email us if you want the solutions!

1		6	14	9	41
				15	24
8			13		40
19	30	12	32	12

Number nonogram #10!

		1	2	3
4	5
6
7
8

Want to see anything else? Have other suggestions? Drop 'em in the suggestion form from the front page!

Last but not least, the credits! Thank you to everyone who made issue #15 possible!

I, Founder

Pi, Subterranean Homesick Blues

JSL, Website Maintainer

Carnivalesque, the NEWEST member, for horoscopes and advice!

Kris, Cover layout and logo designer!

... And finally you for picking up and reading this edition of Tunnel Vision, hope you enjoyed! We'll see you on 2/17 or 2/24 for issue #16! Check our website for the final release date.